Farmer Privett, of Florence county, S. C., has pioneered the way out of the all-cotton rut, according to the Charleston News and Courier. He cultivated eighteen acres in tobacco, and sold the crop for $3,300, realizing, after a liberal allowance for cost of cultivating and curing, a clear profit of $150 an acre. With such a boost as that tobacco growing ought to soon get a pretty good start in that section.

More Offers of Assistance.

That the white men of Wilmington had the sympathy of the whole State in the recent unfortunate occurrence in "Brooklyn" is unmistakably demonstrated by the large number of telegrams offering assistance from almost every quarter of the State. In addition to those already published Mr. J. H. Rehder received the following:

From Yorkville, S. C.—"Wire me promptly full particulars and if you need help command us.
M. F. JONES."

From Salisbury, N. C.—"If you want any help wire me at once how many; my expense. P. B. BEARD."

In addition to these Capt. A. D. Black received the following from Lumber Bridge:

"Will bring down fifty men with Winchesters, if needed.
"R. F. DEVAN."

Some Interesting Pictures.

Mr. H. Cronenberg, the progressive photographer, has some interesting photographs on exhibition at his place on Market street. They are views as follows: First, "Wreck of the Record Office" after its destruction by citizens Thursday last; second, "Mrs. Mayo's Residence in Brooklyn," the scene of the shooting of young Mr. Mayo; third, "House of the Negro who Shot Mr. Mayo," and where he was captured and riddled with bullets soon after the shooting; fourth, "City Hospital," where the wounded were carried after the trouble.

It goes without saying the pictures attracted very much attention yesterday.

Chief Schnibben Returns Thanks.

Chief Chas. Schnibben, of the Fire Department, wishes to return thanks publicly to Mr. J. M. Solky, of the Carolina Ice Company, for the loan of one of his ice wagons to be used for the carriage of some extra hose in case of an emergency during the Thursday trouble. He also wishes to return the thanks of the Fire Department to many of the members of the old volunteer company, who also gallantly tendered their services in case the regular company should be inadequate.

For the Soldier Boys.

It is especially requested by ladies, who have the matter in charge, that every lady who can possibly do so, will send provisions to the armory to-day for the brave soldier "boys," who are here to protect our property and our homes. They request that some of the baskets be sent in early enough this morning for breakfast and others for dinner, and supper this evening.

Condition of Mr. Mayo.

Everybody is anxious about the condition of Mr. William Mayo, who was shot in the trouble Thursday, and it gives the STAR genuine pleasure to announce this morning that his condition last night was very favorable and it is thought now that he will recover beyond a doubt.

To City Subscribers.

City subscribers are earnestly requested to report promptly at the STAR office every failure of the carriers to deliver their papers. In all such cases steps will be taken to insure promp and regular delivery.

GOOD ORDER RULES.

Business Has Been Resumed and the City Has Regained Its Normal Tranquility.

100 POLICEMEN TO BE ELECTED

Coroner's Inquest Augments Evidence of Negro Responsibility for Thursday's Race War—Verdict of the Jury—Other Developments

The streets of Wilmington will be patrolled by military until Monday night, although a normal quietude already reigns. Gov. Russell has telegraphed Col. Walker Taylor, who is in command, that he can keep the visiting State Guards as long as he deems necessary.

The Aldermen have ordained that the bar-rooms shall continue closed until noon Wednesday. They have not been open since Saturday, the 5th inst.

Mayor Waddell to-day sent a number of well known negroes through the woods adjacent to the city to re-assure the hundreds of negroes hiding in all directions. Many of them, men, women and children are reported starving.

An effort is made to get them to return to their homes by assuring them that they will not be harmed if they go quietly about their work and maintain an inoffensive deportment.

Business Has Been Resumed

in all parts of the city. The stores were all open yesterday and did a good business.

Employers of negro labor are very short of workmen. Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son, who employ more of them than any firm in town, in their cotton compress have about two-thirds of their usual force. Shipping is being greatly retarded by the trouble. There were nine steamships in port awaiting cargoes of cotton when the race war broke out. Two have since been cleared but it will be impossible for the others to be loaded before the contract limit expires.

Mr. Sprunt's View of the Situation.

Mr. James Sprunt, in conversation with a member of the STAR'S local staff yesterday, expressed much gratification at the remarkably short time in which order has been restored by the new city authorities. He thinks that as soon as the negroes realize that they are not to be molested as long as they go quietly and peaceably about their work, there will be no trouble in getting all the stevedores needed for the present emergency. He says Col. Waddell's policy as Mayor gives every assurance that protection will be accorded to whites and blacks alike. And it is the especial purpose of the authorities to protect all persons regularly employed in lawful occupation.

Looking for Wilmington Exiles.

It was rumored about the city last night that the negro Manly who edited the late daily Record, had been caught in Norfolk yesterday afternoon severely beaten and locked in jail for safe keeping. The STAR wired the Norfolk Virginia-Pilot about the matter and received the following telegram in reply, to-wit:

"A negro, giving his name as Geo. W. Brown, applied at the postoffice window this morning for a stamp. A white man stepped up and inquired his name. Brown gave it and Wilmington as his home. The man struck the negro, knocking him down, and another man joined in kicking him in the ribs. The negro says he lives in Canada, and has worked at candy-making in Wilmington recently. Manly, if here, has not been found. North Carolinians are watching for him. It is reported that the white men, R. H. Bunting, J. R. Melton and C. H. Gilbert, recently banished, arrived this morning, but they could not be found."

List of Fatalities.

The list of fatalities so far reported to the Coroner, as a result of the "Brooklyn" fight between the whites and blacks, has reached the number of seven. The dead (all negroes) are Josh Halsey, Daniel Wright, William Mouzon, John L. Gregory, John L. Townsend, Silas Brown (alias Charles Lindsey) and Sam McFarland; the latter having died at the city hospital yesterday afternoon.

The coroner's jury, consisting of six men as follows: Col. J. W. Atkinson, Messrs. W. M. Cumming, E. P. Bailey, J. B. Huggins, and Elijah Lane and J. W. Yarborough, yesterday rendered their verdict after inquiring into the facts and circumstances and hearing all testimony to be procured, as follows: "That the said deceased came to their deaths by gunshot wounds inflicted by some person or persons to this jury unknown."

In addition to the sworn statement of Mr. William McAllister, published in Friday's STAR with reference to the origin of the fight, the testimony of the witnesses before the coroner's jury is published this morning and will prove conclusively that the negroes were the aggressors in the unfortunate affair and that the white men were forced to fire as a matter of protection.

Testimony at the Inquest.

The testimony for the most part, is by good reputable citizens, and of course must have the greatest of weight with unprejudiced persons. The testimony was as follows:

Mr. B. C. Moore testified that on the forenoon of Thursday he saw a crowd of negroes on Fourth and Harnett streets and they were persuaded to disperse by a negro man, but they soon assembled again. There were six or seven white men near St. Matthew's Church, standing peaceably. In a little while he saw two pistol shots fired from the crowd of negroes. Then the posse of white men advanced and shot down four negroes, two of whom were killed. The crowd then dispersed and three wounded white men were brought to his store.

Special Policeman Lockamy testified that he was a special policeman and was on duty on Fourth street. He saw two crowds of negroes on corners of Fourth and Harnett streets. He went to them and tried to induce them to disperse. The crowd on the southwest corner did disperse, but the crowd on the other side told them to "go to h—l," that they were not going anywhere. He left and passed some white men, who asked what the negroes had said. He told them and walked on, going south, and heard in a moment several shots and a volley. He looked back, but did not see who was shot. He did not return

Mr. S. Hill Terry testified that he saw the shooting. He was not the captain of any posse. He did not know who did the firing that caused the killing.

Dr. C. D. Bell testified that he saw two bodies lying in front of Mr. Walker's store, but did not recognize them. He also saw the body of Gregory. In his opinion the deaths were caused by gun-shot wounds but did not know the cause of the death of Gregory.

Dr. Jno. T. Schonwald testified that he saw a crowd of negroes on the northeast corner of Fourth and Harnett streets and a posse of seven or eight white men about one hundred feet from the corner. A policeman was endeavoring to disperse the crowd of negroes. He failed and reported to the white men who said they could disperse them. The posse then proceeded to the southwest corner. One or two pistol shots were fired, but he did not see by whom, only he knew not by the posse, and immediately the posse of white men fired a volley and he saw two negroes fall and the rest dispersed. He saw two dead bodies at the place but did not examine them, except to find out if they were dead, feeling the pulse of each. All this occurred between 11 and 12 o'clock, Nov. 10th.

Mildred Clinton testified that she knew Josh Hasley and that it was his body that the jury viewed yesterday. Does not know how he met his death. She is the sister of Josh Hasley, the deceased.

The body of Sam McFarland was viewed by the Coroner late yesterday afternoon and was turned over to his family for burial.

The other bodies were taken to an undertaker's shop, and were all given decent burial.

FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING.

The Residence of Rev. J. B. Harrell Partially Destroyed by Fire.

Yesterday morning about 7.30 o'clock a fire alarm was sent in from box No. 46, at the corner of Third and Nun streets. With their usual promptness the fire companies turned out, locating the fire at the residence of Rev. J. B. Harrell, No. 413 Church street, which is between Fourth and Fifth. The fire originated in a wardrobe of the house and despite the most excellent service of the fire companies it was not put under control until the damage reached the amount of $150 or $200 to the dwelling and $15 to furniture. In addition to this loss a greater part of the wearing apparel of the family was in the wardrobe in which the fire had its origin and was consumed by the flames.

It is thought that the house was fired by rats igniting a match, as it could not have possibly been the work of an incendiary.

The dwelling was the property of Mr. Alex. Sholar, of Savannah, Ga., and the loss is fully covered by insurance.

U. S. Court.

Mr. W. H. Shaw, Clerk of the United States District Court, received a telegram yesterday afternoon from District Attorney C. M. Bernard, saying that no Federal Court would convene here on Wednesday, Nov. 16th, to which time the court, which was recently held here, adjourned. The order is by Judge Purnell and the reason stated is that the case of J. W. Mabry, the only one on docket, has been dismissed, it appearing conclusively to His Honor that Mabry is not guilty.

STAR readers will remember that Mabry was charged with having broken into the Maxton postoffice on the night of November 26th last, and at the session of court here week before last, his counsel was given time to procure witnesses to prove an alibi.

The Hewlett Case.

The case of the State of North Carolina against Elijah Hewlett, which was to have been heard before A. J. Marshall, Commissioner, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, was postponed by consent of attorneys from both sides until Mr. Hewlett is well enough to be present in person to answer to the charges.

Notice to Jurors and Witnesses.

The jurors and witnesses recognized to be at the United States District Court at Wilmington on Wednesday Nov. 16th, need not attend. By the order of Judge Purnell.

LOCAL DOTS.

— The cotton market was quiet yesterday at 4¼ cents for middling, with the receipts 1504 bales.

— Henry Gause, colored, arrested Friday for larceny of a gun, is not Henry S. Gause, the well known drayman.

— Sheriff Hewlett gives notice in this issue of the STAR that after the 20th instant costs will be added to all county taxes.

— Special services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the W. L. I. Armory, conducted by Rev. Robt. Strange, D. D.

— Mr. B. J. Price, one of the STAR'S substantial friends at Cronly, Columbus county, gave the office a very pleasant call yesterday.

— The regular, bona fide mail circulation of THE MORNING STAR is larger than the mail circulation of all other Wilmington Dailies combined.

— The time until which the sale of liquor is prohibited in the city has been extended from Monday the 14th, until Wednesday Nov. 16th, at 12 o'clock M.

— To-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the regular services will be conducted at the Seamen's Bethel by Rev. A. D. McClure. Seamen especially are invited to attend.

— The records in the office of the Superintendent of Health show that for the week ending yesterday there were 5 births, 3 whites and 2 colored. There were no quarantines.

— All the naval stores markets except rosin opened up yesterday at the old prices which prevailed during the earlier part of the week. The receipts were merely nominal.

— In the tabulated vote of the county published in yesterday's STAR, the vote received by Constable elect Wm. Sheehan, Sr., was inadvertantly left out. His county vote was 2481.

— J. William Bryan, another negro wounded in the Fourth and Harnett street fight on Thursday, was taken to the City Hospital yesterday. He has four gun-shot wounds about the legs but will recover.

— There will be a special meeting of the Board of Director of the Associates Charities to-morrow at the office of the association in the old Court House at 12 o'clock noon. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

— A report that a small riot was in progress at Masonboro Sound created some little excitement on the streets yesterday morning, but this with several other similar reports, from other sections. was soon exploded, — Mr. William Mott who was shot in the leg a few days before the election by a negro while on guard duty, has recovered sufficently to be able to come down town, His friends hope for his complete restoration in a few days.

— Another of the British steamers, which have been loading at the Champion Compress cleared yesterday for Ghent with 6829 bales of cotton. This leavss three others in this port, which will clear as soon as the compress can furnish them with cargoes.

— The STAR votes with pleasure the election of Miss Mary F. Meares, of this city, to the office of corresponding secretary by the General Convention of Daughters of the Confederacy at Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday. The honor is indeed worthily bestowed. A report of the convention proceedings is published in the telegraphic columns.

MORRISON IN "FAUST."

A Rare Treat in Store for Wilmington Theatre-goers Friday, 18th Inst.

Pope very truthfully said: "Truth needs no flowers of speech," and to that end the fact of merely announcing that Lewis Morrison will positively appear in his great creation of Mephisto in "Faust," in a more elaborate production of Goethe's romance than has been our fortune to witness heretofore, is sufficient to assure to the public of a performance worthy of the author and actor, for Mr. Morrison is always thorough in what he does and there is a brilliancy in his work which is distinctly Morrisonian. There is no illusion of mawkish melodramatic sentimentality in "Faust;" it has an absorbing interest obtained and held by the intellectuality of a master mind and which has been molded and dramatized by one who has that "ear mark of genius"—a creative brain. Hence, the cause of the enormous popularity of "Faust" as presented by Lewis Morrison, who announces this as positively his last visit to us as Mephisto.

Changes in Fire Department.

Mr. Louis Freimuth, who has been First Assistant for the Atlantic Engine Company, has been promoted by Chief Schnibben and placed in charge of Engine Company No. 2. Mr. William Hancamamon, who has been a ladderman of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, has been placed in charge of Hose Reel Company No. 3. They are both very popular firemen and the news of their promotion will be received with gladness by quite a large number of friends.

ONE HUNDRED POLICEMEN.

That is the Number the Aldermen Have Decided to Put on Duty for Thirty Days.

At a called meeting of the Board of Aldermen held yesterday it was decided to elect a temporary police force of 100 men for thirty days' service. Forty of them were elected at once and a committee of three gentlemen appointed to recommend a sufficient number to complete the force. Of the forty elected only eighteen have thus far signified their acceptance and taken the oath of office. They are as follows: Robert Green, J. R. Davis, W. C. Moore, J. H. Gillegan, C. S. Bennett, J. A. Martin, Jno. M. Branch, Geo. W. Smith, N. J. Williams, T. N. Simmons, R. F. Rowan, B. T. Bryan, J. H. Hewett, R. R. King, George H. Ward, J. M. King, J. L. Bowen, H. Tietjen, J. G. Carney, W. D. George, Leon George, Ed. George, H. H. Woebse, S. M. Jones, J. L. Sallings, L. D. Hargraves, Frank George.

The names of the others elected are withheld from publication at the request of Chief Parmele until they have signified their acceptance. The committee appointed to seek out available men to complete the complement of 100 policemen consists of A. B. Skelding, H. P. West and C. W. Worth.

A FALSE REPORT.

EDITOR STAR—It is a matter of no surprise that during the excitement of the past few days misconceptions and false rumors should gain circulation to the prejudice of good citizens, so I ask permission to correct one of these rumors. As is generally known, Mr. Jas. Sprunt, on the 10th inst., at some risk and considerable sacrifice of personal feeling, drove through several streets of the city in company with Dr. Wright—the Mayor—for the sole purpose of trying to abate the excitement and prevent needless bloodshed. Later, it was reported that Dr. Wright claimed protection as a British subject from Mr. Sprunt as British vice consul and that Mr. Sprunt had kept him in his house till he left the city.

The "British subject" part of the story is too silly to call for a reply, and I happen to know that Mr. Sprunt has not seen Dr. Wright since about 5 o'clock P. M., on the 10th inst., when they happened to be on the same car on Princess street, and that Dr. Wright has never been in Mr. Sprunt's house nor under his protection, except on the drive that morning through the city. NEWBERN GIVES WARNING.

Citizens Adopt Measures to Prevent an Influx of the Disorderly Element from Wilmington.

NEWBERN, N. C., Nov. 11.
The Star, Wilmington, N. C.

At a meeting of our citizens held to adopt measures to prevent an influx here of the disorderly element from your city, or of the miscreants who, in your righteous indignation, you will drive or have driven from your midst, I was directed to write you and to request that you will publish a short notice that such characters will not be allowed here, and any such who by any means may get here will be promptly and summarily shipped or otherwise dealt with. They will consult their well being and safety by remaining away from here. Our city authorities are in entire accord and will co operate with us in this matter. You will, of course, understand that we are not in any way reflecting upon the action of your people—a very proper one—in ridding themselves of such creatures; far from it. You have our hearty approval and sympathy, and we stand ready to aid in every way in the good work you have so well done; but such cattle must understand that they cannot stop here, or it will be worse for them.

With best wishes for you all from all our citizens.

Yours, very truly,
GRAHAM DAVES.

ALFRED MOORE WADDELL.

[Raleigh News and Observer.]

The people of North Carolina will never forget the bravery, the courage, and the heroic patriotism that has been displayed by Hon. Alfred Moore Waddell before, during and since the election. He is a worthy descendant of Hugh Waddell, one of the foremost heroes of Revolutionary days. In the revolution through which Wilmington has passed, he has been as great as his ancestors were when they defied the Royal Government and the Tories.

In ordinary times, Col. Waddell is the lawyer, the scholar, the quiet citizen. In times of peril, when the highest qualities of brave leadership and personal courage and daring are required, he takes his place as leader. During the days of Reconstruction, he was the leader of the determined men who rescued the State from the carpet baggers and scalawags. He was the first man to make Oliver H. Dockery understand that no native Southern man could without loss of standing labor to keep North Carolina in incompetent hands. Again in these times, when Wilmington had no city government worthy the name and North Carolina was under the heel of traitors and tricksters, Colonel Waddell led his people to make such resistance as conditions demanded to replace anarchy with law.

Peace was impossible in Wilmington until a strong hand, in touch with the ambitions, inspirations and determination of its people, was at the helm. The election of Col. Waddell to the mayoralty insures a speedy return to normal conditions, when men of all races and classes will enjoy the protection of the law. It is fortunate that at this time a man of Col. Waddell's character and ability will undertake the task which is too great for any man who is not able and without fear of mortal man.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13.

ANOTHER OBJECT LESSON.

We have written a good deal, in the recent campaign, about "object lessons" from the colored standpoint, but we have had object lessons, too, from the white standpoint which negroes who have sense enough to understand might closely study with incalculable benefit.

Although they have for years been voting practically solid against the white people of North Carolina, the white people submitted to it without apparent concern, but when it became manifest that they had entered upon a career of aggressiveness and were determined to aspire to rule over white people from that day they put the white people to thinking, and drew them closer and closer together until they became of one mind and as solid as a stone wall. Even in portions of the State where the negroes figured but insignificantly, race pride was aroused when white men saw what their Eastern brethren were subjected to and the impending peril, and they came to the rescue with a race loyalty as marked as if the peril confronted them. Even white Republicans who had been affiliating with negroes for years, as long as they were willing to remain in the back ground and content themselves with voting, revolted when the negro showed a determination to assert himself and demand the right to rule.

Here was the object lesson presented to the negroes, namely, that when they were solidified to put their own race at the front and the white man behind, the white men would get together for mutual protection and to keep the negro in his own proper place subordinate to the white man.

This phase of the question has never presented itself anywhere yet in the political arena that the white men did not get together and win. They have done it in South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and other States where the negroes are proportionately more numerous than they are in North Carolina, and there the race question, as far as race domination is concerned, has been settled just as we by the election of Tuesday last settled it in this State. Intelligence and brain power rule the world and will rule States, whether the rule be through the ballot box or some other agency.

With his thirty-two years of franchise the negro has learned but little of its true meaning or its proper use, for the man who votes as one of a mob without thought or discrimination has not learned to use, but only to abuse the ballot, and that is all the negroes as voters, taking them as a whole, have ever done with it. With all their experience and with all their schooling they have never advanced one particle on this line, and vote as unintelligently, as blindly and as much like a mob to-day as they did when first taken from the plantations and led like sheep to the polls to vote as they were told to vote by some unscrupulous villain, who wanted their votes for his own benefit.

There was some excuse for them then because they believed their freedom depended on the way they voted and in their ignorance they knew no better. But after thirty-four years of freedom they do know better now, but still as a race they vote just as they did then and obey unscrupulous villains just as they did then There is a difference however which makes that kind of voting more dangerous than it was then for then they were willing to rule as they do now, when there is any hope of their ruling. Then there were few of them who took to politics as a business, while now there are many among them who have had the opportunites of the schooling that the money of the white people have given them. When they learn to read they become politicians, and all want to be leaders, and all get hungry for some kind of an office.

They have had better opportunities and a clearer field in North Carolina than in any other Southern State, and for that matter than in any Northern State, for North Carolina has been very kind to her colored people in supporting schools for them and giving them uncommon schooling advantages, their appreciation of and gratitude for which they have shown by invariably going with and supporting men who were a discredit to their State and no credit to them. In all these years of voting they have learned little, if they have learned anything, although they have had opportunities to have learned much. Recent events have given them an object lesson from which they may learn much if they study it.

But they have had another within the past few days in Wilmington, which they may and probably will study with advantage, and that is the celerity with which white men came together when clouds lower and storms threaten. When the late trouble culminated in this city and it became apparent that the negroes, under incendiary leadership, might resort to violence, there were no two decent white men in Wilmington who were not of the same mind, and that mind was that white supremacy must be maintained in this city at any cost. There were no ifs nor ands and no suggestion of compromise in that, and the unanimity with which the white men got together left no doubt of that. And when the fighting began, and the word had gone out that blood had been shed the prompt and numerous voluntary offers of assistance by telegraph from towns and cities in this and our neighboring State, South Carolina, demonstrated that when the crisis came, how quick the white men of one section were to fly, if needed, to the succor of their brothers in another section. "Blood is thicker than water," and there is not a negro in North Carolina, nor in the South who knows anything of the story of the past few day in Wilmington, who does not now realize that. They realize the other folly and insanity of undertaking to intimidate or to control by threats of violence or by violence white men, although they may outnumber them. This is an object lesson that they may and doubtless will study and remember.

TO OUST DEMOCRATS.

According to the latest estimates the Republicans claim a majority of of about thirteen in the next U. S. House of Representatives. The fact that they have any majority at all will result no doubt in many contested seats and doubtless in the throwing out of a good many Democrats elected, especially from the Southern States. This is the customary thing to do when the Republicans have a majority in the House, and we may, of course, expect that they will follow the custom.

It seems that the Republican politicians and machine managers in Washington are already discussing this, and it appears that they have selected North Carolina and Kentucky as special subjects for their attention. A special telegram to the Baltimore Sun thus refers to the scheme:

"Republican control of the next House will develop an exceptionally large crop of contested election cases, of which naturally the main portion will come from the South. It was said in Republican circles that every Southern State, from Virginia to Texas will furnish one or more of these cases, and North Carolina and Kentucky will have a big batch. It would be somewhat innocent to imagine these cases will be tried on their merits, for although, as above said, there will be no urgent necessity for arbitrary action, there will doubtless be a wholesale ejectment of Southern members.

This is simply in accordance with the programme decided upon before the election by the machine managers in this State in the event the State went Democratic, and when it became apparent to them that it would do that. They started the howl about "intimidation," Senator Pritchard patched up his story for use in Washington, and the plea was put in that Federal troops might be necessary to protect the Republicans in the exercise of their rights as voters. This was accompanied or immediately followed by Governor Russell's "proclamation," the object of which was to give official weight to the cries of intimidation, and it was all done to give a pretext for the action to be taken in the event of defeat, which they felt to be inevitable.

Thirteen is not a very large majority to count upon and the Republican leaders will of course, wish to add to it and will not scruple to do it on the lighest pretext, and as the defeated will not like the idea of losing the $10,000 salary for the term, they will of course importune their Republican friends to help them out, and in such cases they generally have a good deal of sympathy. For these reasons, we may expect a good many contests from the South.

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by R. R. BELLAMY, Druggist. †

THEY APPRECIATE IT.

It would be expressing it very mildly to say that the white people of this community have a heartfelt appreciation of the numerous offers of assistance in our late trouble from other cities and towns in our own and our sister State, South Carolina A more impressive demonstration of brotherly feeling and kinship was never made and if there had been need of it there is not the slightest doubt that several thousand armed would have come to us as rapidly as locomotives could have drawn them.

Fortunately those that came, and came so gladly, their only regret being that they were not here sooner, were more than sufficient for the emergency, but this does not lessen the sense of gratitude that our people feel for the noble and chivalrous offers of the brave and true men of other towns to come if needed.

While proud of the brotherhood of such men, and such proof that white men can rely upon white men when emergencies call for mutual co-operation, our people have not passed unnoticed the brave and gallant behavior of our own young men, and elderly, too, who were summoned to duty, and responded with an alacrity as admirable as it was prompt and cheerful. For days before the storm broke they had been doing voluntary guard duty, day and night, to be ready for any emergency at the tap of the drum, and they were ready, and when the emergency came, and they were called, no men ever responded more nobly or bravely, or did duty more loyally, devotedly or enthusiastically. They were the true stuff; they proved it when put to the test, and our people are proud of them.

The moral effect of all this will not be lost, but will be permanent.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Red Springs Record: The Long Distance Telephone Line from Fayetteville, Spout Springs, etc , was completed to this point yesterday. It may be extended to Tarboro by G. A. Holderness.

— Weldon News: State farm crops are as fine as were ever before seen and hundreds of hands are now busy picking out the immense cotton crop. Owing to the low prices of the staple, however, the State cannot possibly make any money on these farms this year. If expenses are met it will be about all that can be expected.

— Rocky Mount Argonaut: The community was surprised and shocked Thursday morning by the news of the death of T. P. Braswell Jr., of Battle boro, which occurred at 3 o'clock this morning. —— Mr. R. S. Lewis, who lives about four miles from town, lost his pack-house with 15,000 pounds of tobacco on Tuesday night. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. There was some insurance.

— Kinston Free Press: We hear that at Greenville Wednesday after noon the ladies, dressed in white, paraded the streets in celebration of the redemption of the State and Pitt county from negro domination. Greenville has been especially afflicted with negro rule and the people there are ususually joyful and grateful for the passing of the black cloud of negro domination.

— Charlotte News: John Peacy, who lives at Linville Falls, N. C., reports that bears have eaten up all his hogs. There are still a good many bears and deer in the wild gorges of the Linville between the Shoot off mountain and the falls, where there are more than 100.000 acres of land without a cabin or clearing. —— Mr P. F. Dixon brought to the News office this morning a cluster of second growth apples that he took from a tree in his yard. The fruit is well developed and is quite a rarity in this section.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Virginia rejoices with North Carolina. Virginia takes pleasure in saluting her and in felicitating her people upon their magnificent and victorious struggle against an evil which is one of the greatest that can afflict a community.

Truly, our friends across the line did their duty nobly.—Norfolk Landmark, Dem.

—— And now what will Governor Russell, of North Carolina, do with those negro "savages" of his? They cannot save him from impeachment, should the justly indignant and triumpant Tarheel Democrats proceed to take that course with respect to him. Possibly he will again find that in this opinion they are "savages"—Richmond Times, Dem.

—— The North Carolina election was non-political. It was a question whether civilization or reaction should govern, and the country will not grudge the Democrats the congressmen they gain there. The election was carried without bloodshed, and that is praiseworthy on each side It disarms criticism of the whites, who were elaborately prepared to fight for success. In such cases the party confident of the justice of its cause is the most willing to risk life in its defense. There should now be no more muttering, of race war in North Carolina.—New York Commercial Advertiser, Rep,

REEFTON, New Zealand, Nov. 23, 1898.

I am very well pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicines the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

Upon a barren hillside
I saw a poor tree cling,
With bony arms outstretched as if
To clutch some unseen thing.
Its naked roots were twisted
And thrust in, here and there,
Between the rocks for succor
That lay below somewhere.

Down in the pleasant valley
Where the soil was deep and rich,
The trees grew tall and stately,
Without the efforts which
The lone one on the hillside
Was ever forced to make,
And shielded from the wind fiends
That sought to bend or break.

O, toiler, on the hillside,
Where fierce winds ever blow,
There is ease in the verdant valleys
That stretch away below;
But men, like trees, are chosen
For meat-blocks or for thrones,
For some rich soil, for others
To cling among the stones.

Economics.

Frantz Poesing could not understand why he should not be allowed to leave the barge office. His card bore the inscription, "Not money enough," but he thought he had something as good as money besides the cash he had shown. He was a healthy young German, his accent fresh from Unter den Linden, his suit and his boots spick and span, his manner full of dignity and method.

"They say I have not money enough," he argued, "but I have a brand new suit in my trunk, for which I paid 64 marks, and I have not worn it more than four or five times. You wish to see it? Well, anyhow, it is worth at least 55 marks now. I assure you it is as good as new. Then I have a lot of new books, for which I paid 50 marks. They are all about business, and one is entitled 'The Merchant on the Height of His Success, and How to Follow Him.' I bought all these books before leaving because I had made up my mind to go into business in this country and I wanted to prepare for it. GOWN OF NUT-BROWN LADIES' CLOTH FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

SHAPED bands and stitchings which are at present lavished upon cloth as well as silk and velvet gowns trim in tunic effect a handsome Paris costume of nut brown ladies' cloth. The circular overdress, seamed in front, is encircled with six rows of bias bands, meeting in points and stitched on each edge.

Many lines of stitching trim also the shaped flounce, which lengthens the tunic, and rises in front to disclose a portion of the under-skirt—a seven-gored silk foundation four yards wide, faced in front with the cloth. The back fulness of the tunic is adjusted in a graduated box pleat.

The jacket, whose pointed revers are faced in white, has a border of sable fur, and pointed stitched bands trim alike the fronts and seamless back.

With the bolero is worn a dainty French chemisette, formed of a chenille patterned net and a great bow, whose ends are of the same chenille lace, and accompanied by a fluffy boa velvet edged. The long sleeves end in funnel shape low over the hand, and are banded their entire length with stitched folds. Currant-red velvet composes the waist band. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only by the use of the cut paper patterns furnished by HARPER'S BAZAR, where the gown appears.

The rolling brim of the brown felt hat is bordered with sable trimming, and the decoration in front is an ornament of brilliants, from which extend either side brown Mercury wings.

Quantity of material: cloth, 54 inches wide, 8 yards; white cloth, ½ yard.

HID THEIR CHARITY.

The Good Samaritan, as Played by Dr. Gannett and Bishop de Cheverus.

The Rev. Dr. Gannett on one occasion spoke in words of the most sincere admiration of M. de Cheverus, the first Roman bishop of Boston, says C. F. B. Miel in The Atlantic. He told me this story:

Abandoned in a miserable cabin outside of Boston was an infirm negro. The bishop found him out, and without informing any one every evening after his day's duties quietly made his way to the cabin and spent his time with this afflicted creature, washing and dressing his sores, making his bed and providing for his various wants. A servant, who remarked that on the bishop's return his coat was covered with dust and feathers, wondered where his master went, and followed him afar off on one of his excursions. Looking between the loose timbers which made the wall of the cabin, he saw the man of God engaged in his work of mercy.

Dr. Gannett told me this story with a kind of admiration for such devotion on the part of a prelate. Little did he suppose that I myself would surprise him in the exercise of a no less humble and Christlike charity.

I had been told that a certain German teacher, Professor Sherb, was lying ill in a cold and comfortless attic in a miserable quarter of the city, and had no one to take care of him. At my first free moment I sought the lodging of this poor man, but Dr. Gannett was there before me. I found him at the door with a broom in his hand, with which he had been sweeping the room of the invalid. I entered and found the sick man sitting up in front of a newly lighted fire, carefully rolled up in a blanket, eating grapes which had been brought him by the good Samaritan. The mattress had been removed from the bed, the sheets had been put out to air, the meager furnishings of the room had been put in order, and all this by the hand of my excellent friend, who appeared quite confused when caught in the act.

CHINESE SHOES.

Most of Those Seen Here Come From Canton—Their Construction and Cost.

The thick soled, white edged shoes seen upon the feet of the Chinamen in this city are all imported from China, most of them from Canton, where they are made by hand. The white edge is of a thick, rigid sole, made of a material resembling plaster, and if it becomes dirty can be cleaned and whitened again. Some shoes have the wide white edge of this sole finished with a glazed or polished surface, which can be cleaned by rubbing it with a damp cloth.

The bottom soles of these shoes are made of a number of layers of rather thin leather placed one upon another, making a built up sole. This sole is stitched through and through in many places on regular lines, giving the bottom of the sole a sort of quilted effect. This work is neatly and trimly done, even on the cheap shoes. There are some Chinese shoes without the characteristic thick white edged soles and provided with soles of leather only.

The top of the Chinese shoe is of cloth or silk or satin and the lining of the same material. Velvet is often used on the top, cut in patterns that are laid over the body of the shoe, which may be of silk or satin in some bright color, while the velvet may be of black, producing picturesque and striking effects. Costly shoes are made of fine materials and are often richly embroidered. Chinese shoes of the regular style, with the thick, white edged sole and the leather bottom sole and cloth top, may be bought for as little as $1 a pair. Handsome Chinese shoes may be bought for $3 and upward a pair. Chinese shoes worn by persons of rank may be much more expensive, costing for shoes worn with court dress from $20 to $50 and more.—New York Sun.

Green Garnets.

Green garnets are more valuable than diamonds because they are so exceedingly rare. They are of an unsurpassed rich shade far beyond that of an emerald and are very brilliant. On the other hand, red garnets are so common that they cost next to nothing.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The cotton market opened quiet with prices unchanged to one point lower, and ruled exceptionally dull and featureless during the forepart of the session with prices confined to a range of two points. Liverpool cables were about as expected, the crop movement no more than filled conservative estimates, and orderes were few ahd far between, thus leaving room traders purposeless for the most part. Several houses were seen to be closing out their accounts, quietly, seeing nothing in the general situation to inspire confidence. At best it was a dull holiday market. The late market was slightly feverish, but prices continued to follow a narrow channel. The close was steady at net unchanged prices.

WINGS OF A DOVE.

At sunset, when the rosy light was dying
Far down the pathway of the west,
I saw a lonely dove in silence flying
To be at rest.

Pilgrim of air, I cried, could I but borrow
Thy wandering wings, thy freedom blest,
I'd fly away from every careful sorrow
And find my rest.

But when the dusk a filmy veil was weaving,
Back came the dove to seek her nest.
Deep in the forest where her mate was grieving—
There was true rest.

Peace, heart of mine, no longer sigh to wander!
Lose not thy life in fruitless quest.
There are no happy islands over yonder.
Come home and rest!

—Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke's "The Builders and Other Poems."

Paris During a Revolution.

The boulevard, which we followed, presented a strange spectacle. There was hardly a soul to be seen, although it was nearly 9 o'clock in the morning, and one heard not the slightest sound of a human voice, but all the little sentry boxes which stand along this endless avenue seemed to move about and totter upon their bases, and from time to time one of them would fall with a crash, while the great trees along the curb came tumbling down into the roadway as though of their own accord. These acts of destruction were the acts of isolated individuals, who went about their business silently, regularly and hurriedly, preparing in this way the materials for the barricade which others were to erect. Nothing ever seemed to me more to resemble the carrying on of an industry, and, as a matter of fact, for the greater number of these men it was nothing less. The instinct of disorder had given them the taste for it, and their experience of so many former insurrections the practice. I do not know that during the whole course of the day I was so keenly struck as in passing through this solitude in which one saw, so to speak, the worst passions of mankind at play, without the good ones appearing. I would rather have met in the same place a furious crowd, and I remember that, calling Languinais' attention to those tottering edifices and falling trees, I gave vent to the phrase which had long been on my lips and said: "Believe me, this time it is no longer a riot. It is a revolution."—"Recollections of De Tocqueville."

A Telling Answer.

The author of "Thoughts For the People" tells a suggestive anecdote of a man who scandalized an entire community by spending most of his time indoors, engaged in reading and study. This waste of golden hours gave peculiar pain to an energetic farmer, who finally asked the new neighbor why he did not work for a living, like other men. The apparent idler replied in Yankee fashion by a question about a plow he had seen in the farmer's barn.

"It's the best plow ever made," the farmer answered. "It does twice the work of an old fashioned plow. But I don't see what that has to do with the question of your earning your living."

"I invented that plow," said the other calmly.

It is seldom possible to fix the exact value of another man's achievements. It is never safe to estimate his work by the noise he makes. A prisoner in the treadmill is one of the most active men on earth, but what does his industry profit? Great works grow slowly and in silence, and the man who promises least may some day command the most potent forces.

Her Cat From Carnac.

A woman who recently returned from Egypt brought with her a terra cotta figure of a cat which she saw with her own eyes dug out of the ruins of Karnac. She paid a good price for it and was delighted with her purchase. Unfortunately the other day it was knocked down and smashed. Its head was found to be stuffed with old numbers of the Birmingham (England) Post.—Newburyport News.

THE BLACK DEATH.

THAT FEARFUL PLAGUE THAT FOLLOWS IN THE WAKE OF WAR.

In the Fourteenth Century It Swept the Whole of Europe, Killing Twenty-five Millions of People In Three Years—The Pestilence In London.

The plague, or pestilence, that mysterious and fearful visitation which has moved its hosts in the wake of armies to slay more than war itself, is supposed to have first originated among the dense masses of people who crowded together in the great cities of Asia and Egypt, or who formed the encampment of Xerxes, Cyrus and Tamerlane the Tartar. It probably sprang from the impurity which must have existed in the midst of such vast gatherings and in part also from leaving the unburied dead upon the field of battle. At any rate the germs of this fearful human poison have always been most active where conditions similar to those have prevailed. It has always been war and the march of armies that has spread it broadcast over the world from time to time, and as war became less frequent and less worldwide the frequency and extent of these ravages have lessened also.

The first recorded outbreak of the plague in Europe occurred in the sixteenth century. It came from lower Egypt. This was the first lapping of the wave that reached into the east again, there to stay its movement so far as the west was concerned until 544 A. D., when the returning legions of the Emperor Justinian brought it again into the western world from the battlefields of Persia. Constantinople was the first place it attacked. Here in a single day as many as 10,000 persons are said to have fallen victims to it. But the plague did not stop with Constantinople. It had found a too congenial soil in Europe, which was little else than one great battlefield at the time. It was carried into Gaul, where it followed close in the wake of the Frankish armies, and from Gaul it moved into Italy, with the Lombards, and so devastated the country as to leave it entirely at the mercy of the invaders.

The various crusades, which extended over a space of about 200 years, no doubt did much to hold the pestilence in Europe, for they served to keep open the channels of intercourse between the east and the west. Periodic epidemics were common during their continuance, and these seem to have culminated in the fourteenth century with what is known in history as the black death. The black death was more fatal to human life than any other single cause since the world began. The havoc of war was nothing in comparison to it. It swept the whole of Europe, leaving in its path such misery and destitution as the world had never known. It killed in three years some 25,000,000 of people. Such figures stagger the comprehension, but the records of the time cannot be doubted. The entire population of Europe is estimated to have been about 100,000,000—kept down as it was by the constant warfare—and of these 100,000,000 at least a fourth perished.

The ravages of the plague in Italy, where it came in the track of the war of the Guelphs and Ghibellines, was particularly disastrous to mankind. It raged with terrible fury in Naples, where 60,000 persons are said to have died. It fell upon Pisa and seven out of every ten perished. It utterly and forever destroyed the prosperity of Siena. Florence also suffered severely, while 100,000 of the inhabitants of Venice were literally wiped off the face of the earth. From Italy it moved into France, where the mortality was almost as great; in Paris alone 50,000 people died from it. One of the worst features presented by the history of the black death was the cruel persecution it aroused against the Jews. They were supposed to have infected the air in some mysterious manner, and they were accused of having poisoned the wells and springs. In Strassburg 2,000 of them were buried alive in their own burial ground.

The order of the Flagellanto arose at this time, coming from the belief that the sins of the world had at last brought down the wrath of heaven. It was the beginning of the so called Hundred Years' war that carried the black death into England, where in London its victims numbered 100,000. When at last the plague had worked its ravages, it doubled back over its course, to disappear in the east. In 1845 it appeared again in England, first among the soldiers of Richmond after the battle of Bosworth Field, and when the victorious army marched to London the plague went with them to work its havoc there. As long as it lasted the mortality was as great as that caused by the black death half a century before. Five thousand people died in five weeks, and then the plague left London as suddenly as it had appeared there, to sweep over the rest of England.

In Scotland the plague of 1568 came immediately after the battle of Langside, when Queen Mary was dethroned, but no records of the mortality it occasioned seem to have been preserved. The plague visited London in 1675. This followed after the civil war which ended with the death of Charles II, but so many years intervened that it is impossible to trace any connection between the two events. In modern wars danger from the plague seems gradually to have lessened, perhaps as a result of better sanitary conditions maintained by the armies of today.—Philadelphia Press.

A Filtering Medium.

Absorbent cotton is highly recommended as a filtering medium. It acts rapidly and is therefore of great value in filtering volatile elements. For ordinary household use it is specially recommended because of its inexpensiveness and ease of management. A large funnel must be provided, and the cotton is pressed more or less firmly into the neck, according to the substance to be passed through. Some liquids are much more difficult to manage than others, and this must of course be allowed for. A little practice will show the housewife just how closely the cotton must be packed to insure success in filtering the various liquids with which she has to deal. —New York Ledger.

The Man of Moderate Means.

"I suppose there can be no doubt," said the man of moderate means, "that a man can do better work on good food. By that I mean the best of food, the things that delight the taste and satisfy the stomach and suffuse the whole being with joy, to the exclusion of all care. But I imagine that these things can be fed to advantage only to the men who are ready and willing to work and whose output can be improved thereby. They might be lost on others, whom they would only lull to sleep and who can be kept at work only by the rasping stimulant of poverty."—New York Sun.

FOOLED THE PREMIER.

An Experiment Which Made Matters Worse Than They Had Been.

A story, the truth of which is vouched for in high quarters, is told concerning the "manners" of the political members of a small country renowned for its ancient courage. The prime minister gave a reception to meet some distinguished Englishmen. The assemblage consisted solely of the strangers, the members of the parliament and the prime minister. During the course of the evening one of the more distinguished of the English guests discovered that his watch had been taken. He went to his host and informed him of his loss, adding that he especially prized the watch, as it was a present to him from the king of the country whose guest he had the honor to be at that moment.

The prime minister saw at once that there was only one thing to be done, and, asking for silence, explained the situation to the company. He said that no doubt some one had yielded to the temptation of the moment, but that when they learned that the missing article was the gift of their king he was sure their loyalty, if nothing else, would prompt them to restore it to its owner. In order that the culprit's honor might be preserved and the country saved from a scandal, he said, the lights would be lowered for five minutes and the guests would defile past the writing table, which would give an opportunity for the delinquent to place the watch there.

Upon this the room was darkened for the stipulated time. On the lights being turned up it was found that the watch had not been placed on the writing table, but that a valuable silver inkstand, also a gift of the king to his prime minister, was missing as well.—London Telegraph.

The above named diseases are all due to diseased germs floating around in the blood These germs make their appearance in the form of sores on the body at the point of least resistance. To effect a cure the poison must be got out of the blood.

Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) is the only remedy which has really effected a permanent cure of these terrible diseases. B. B. B. is a powerful vegetable blood remedy, which, when it mixes with the diseased blood, causes the humors and germs to leave the body through the pores of the skin and excretory organs. Mr. B. F. Price, a Philadelphia druggist, recently wrote us that when people afflicted with Blood Diseases called for a remedy he invariably advised them to use B. B. B., taking the medicine regularly, and he never knew of a case that failed of a permanent cure. It has been on the market now for 17 years, and we have recent letters from patients who were cured years ago, saying that they are as well as can be at the present time, with no trace of the disease left. This proves that the poison was entirely driven out of the system, and hence a permanent cure effected. It is the cure that counts. We will let some of the patients speak for themselves.

ECZEMA CURED BX B. B. B.

Julia E. Johnson Stafford's P. O., S. C., says: "I had suffered thirteen years with eczema, and was at times confined to my bed. The itching was terrible. My son-in-law got me one-half dozen bottles of Botanic Blood Balm, which entirely cured me, and I ask you to publish this for the benefit of others suffering in like manner."

BLOOD POISON CURED BY B. B. B.

MAXEY, GA., Jan. 8.

"For twelve years I suffered from blood poison. My face and shoulders became a mass of corruption, and the disease began to eat my skull bones. It was said I must surely die, but I tried a bottle of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) with benefit, and six bottles more I became sound and well, and have been so for twelve months. Hundreds of scars can be seen on me, and I extend heartfelt thanks or so valuable a remedy. ROBERT WARD."

OFFENSIVE ULCERS CURED BY B. B. B.

"One Summer, several years ago, while railroading in Mississippi, I became badly affected with malarial blood poison, that impaired my health for more than two years. Several offensive ulcers appeared on my legs, and nothing seemed to give permanent relief until I took six bottles of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.), which cured me entirely.

TEXAS SCROFULA CURED.

DEXTER, TEXAS, March 16.

"BLOOD BALM CO.: We had a case of scrofula in our neighborhood of long standing, who had used all patent medicines which were recommended to him; besides this, he also had several doctors attending him, but everything failed to effect any good. He grew worse every day, and had not left his bed for the last six months. His name is Servenka, and we got a neighbor of his to persuade him to try Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.), and after using only one bottle he left his bed for the first time in six months.

"To the present time he has used less than three bottles, and he is walking around visiting his friends in the neighborhood. All scrofulous sores are healing finely, and you never saw a happier man than he is.

"Nearly everybody for miles around has heard of this wonderful cure, and all who need a blood remedy call for the B. B. B.

LIEBKE BROS., Merchants."

More testimonials of the wonderful cure of Blood Diseases by B. B. B. are printed in a little book on Blood Diseases, which is sent free of charge to any one. B. B. B. is for sale by all druggists at $1.00 per large bottle. It cures the smallest pimple to the worst case of scrofula or Blood Poison. Six bottles of B. B. B. sent, charges prepaid, to any one on receipt of $5.00. Address,

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT INTERFERE.

Conclusion of a Conference of Administration Officials Concerning the South Carolina Race Trouble.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Except in unlooked for events in the race rioting in the Carolinas, it is altogether improbable that the government will interfere by force or otherwise. The attorney general had another conference with the President this morning in regard to the matter, and the conclusion was promptly reached that as the demonstrations in Greenwood county, S. C., were not directed against the collector of customs in the performance of his duties, as such, the government had no authority under the constitution or laws to exercise its Federal authority. Collector Tolbert was shot while away from his home and on business entirely disconnected from that of his office, and under these circumstances the government, it is said, had not a shadow of right to interfere If the collector had been shot in the discharge of his official duties, and in an effort to enforce the laws of the United States, the case would have been very different and the duty of the government would have been clear. In the present case, however, it is said that the lawless acts of the mob were not directed against the execution of laws of the United States but against the individual. The case would have been the same had Tolbert been shot on the highway by a robber. Administration officials have no sympathy with the Carolina rioters and regard their acts with abhorance, but up to this time, it is said, there is no evidence that would warrant any interference by the government.

The attorney general late last night sent the following telegram to the assistant United States attorney at Anderson, near Phœnix, S. C.:

"You will at once take energetic steps, incurring the necessary expense, to ascertain the exact situation in Greenwood and adjacent counties, and report the same immediately by wire to me, with a view of advising me whether any such condition of insurrection or disturbance exists as justifies the Federal authorities in interfering to suppress it.

Signed "JOHN W. GRIGGS,
"Attorney General."

To the above the following response has been received:

"Anderson, S. C., Nov. 11.—Attorney General, Washington.—My information is much rioting near Greenwood, at Phœnix, Tuesday and Wednesday. Several negroes killed and wounded. One white man killed and several wounded. Thursday there was also some rioting, but the condition quieter. My information, is quiet there now, though community very much excited. From all information I have I think Federal intervention too late now. It seems the mobs were especially anxious to get the Tolberts, and I am informed that they are now all safely out of their reach. Intense excitement still prevails there, but no violence now. Will wire further to morrow.

(Signed) "E. W. COCHRAN,
"Asst. U. S. Att'y."

SPECIAL CABINET COUNCIL.

A Cablegram from the Paris Peace Commissioners the Chief Subject Discussed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A special cabinet meeting which was called by the President this morning lasted until 1 o'clock. It was devoted almost entirely to a discussion of a cablegram received from the peace commissioners at Paris, and the report of the evacuation commission at Porto Rico, which was personally presented by Admiral Schley.

Owing to the fact that a cabinet meeting on Saturday is quite unusual, many conjectural reports were afloat as to the urgent and critical character of the subject considered, but the members of the cabinet stated most positively at the close of the session that nothing of a critical or disturbing character had developed at Paris, or had been under consideration. The text of a cablegram to be sent to the peace commission at Paris in response to one from Judge Day, was framed. It involved no new or immediate crisis. The Spanish commissioners had asked until a day next week in which to make answer to the note recently submitted by the Americans. Although the administration is becoming somewhat impatient of the delays to the work of the commissioners, occasioned by the procrastination of the Spaniards, the delay in this instance will not be objected to, though it may meet with an intimation that the discussion has reached a point where definite results are expected without further unnecessary loss of time.

Admiral Schley's visit brought up the Porto Rico question. The Admiral, who was accompanied by Secretary Long, was invited to participate in the discussion, the report was an interesting recital of all of the circumstances of American occupation, but the report itself was not given out.

Concerning Cuba a definite conclusion was arrived at by the cabinet to open a port on the western coast of the island, probably at Cienfuegos about December 1, in order to allow the larger planters to get in their machinery and begin to work on the new sugar crop.

The situation in the Carolinas was referred to, only incidentally, the attorney general making the statement that no evidence had yet reached him which would warrant the Federal government in interfering,

ILLINOIS MINE TROUBLE.

Differences With Striking Miners Settled. Work Will be Resumed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CARLINVILLE, ILL., November 12.—The differences between the Chicago-Virden Coal Company at Virden and Auburn and the striking miners have been settled and the shafts will soon be in operation. The company agreed to pay the State scale of forty cents per ton, but did not want to tear down the stockade. Finally the company accepted the offer of the miners that they would take it down and charge the company nothing for the labor.

GERMAN EMPEROR'S VISIT TO SPAIN.

Spanish Government Seeking to Dispose of Its Few Remaining Colonies.

THAT TRIP TO JERUSALEM.

Emperor William's Attempt to Reunite German Protestantism—The Project Utterly Miscarried—An Anglo-German Understanding.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—It is understood in diplomatic circles here that Spain, after the conclusion of a treaty of peace with the United States, will try to dispose of her few remaining colonies, notably the Mariana Islands, the Carolino Island and the Pala Islands and itis reported that the Spanish government has already been cautiously approached by Germany for the purpose of ascertaining how much these groups would be worth to Germany. The officials of the foreign office here admit that the acquisitiou of these Spanish colonies would be of considerable value to Germany, in view of their proximity to Germany's Australasian possessions, but they give no inkling as to their intentions in the matter.

Emperor William's Visit.

The announcement that Emperor William will call at Spanish ports on his way home from the Holy Land, has given rise to all sorts of political speculations, especially in view of the statement that the Queen Regent of Spain has decided to send the Duke of Soto Mayor, with an autograph letter to Carthagena, inviting the German Emperor to visit Madrid and to rejoin the imperial yacht Hohenzollern later at Cadiz. Such an invitation, however, could only be made in accordance with court etiquette, if its acceptance had been previously secured, and it is certain up to the present that this acceptance has not been obtained. On the contrary, while it is evident that Spain is keenly desirous that the Emperor should visit Madrid, and in fact, attempts are already being made to make capital out of the mere fact that he will visit Spanish ports, the foreign office here is doing everything to throw cold water on the idea that his majesty had any political end in view in touching at Spanish ports. The foreign office appears to be anxious to avoid any steps calculated to wound public feeling in the United States, which, it is fully recognized here, would resent a visit of the Emperor to the Spanish ports while the peace negotiations are still unconcluded.

His Trip to Jerusalem.

It has now become known that Emperor William, among other objects in view, desired to utilize his trip to Jerusalem to reunite German Protestantism, now split into a score of factions, and establish his office of Summus Episcopis, now held merely over the Evangelical Church of Prussia, over the whole of Protestant Germany. The Emperor firmly believed he could realize his plan, but nevertheless the project utterly miscarried. The Grand Duke of Baden represented to the Emperor that existing circumstances made it impossible for the other Protestant princes of Germany to yield to the Emperor's wishes.

It is said that Emperor William, during his visit to Jerusalem, was greatly struck by the many French flags flying, and remarked: "France has a great many buildings here, but there is room for others."

An Extraordinary Incident.

It transpires that an extraordinary incident occurred when the Emperor left Constantinople. The Sultan was returning from bidding farewell to his guests, when a man rushed through the escort and placed a large linen bundle in the carriage at the Sultan's feet. Prince Abdel Kader, the second son of the Sultan, who was with the latter in the carriage, jumped to his feet and shouted: "There, they are going to murder my father!"

There was a scene of intense excitement until an aide de camp snatched the bundle out of the carrage and found that instead of explosives, it contained a baby. The man who placed the bundle in the carriage was arrested He declared he was a poor official, that he had not received any salary for months, and that he was on the verge of starvation, and threw the child into the carriage in order to draw the Sultan's attention to his condition. The Sultan, on hearing of the man's story, ordered his salary to be paid.

Anglo-German Understanding.

Whether it is solely or partially due to the Anglo-German understanding it is an undeniable fact that there is a decidedly friendly feeling for Great Britain in the leading circles here, not only among government officials, but among the navy and army officers. Nevertheless, a sensation was created by the complete right about turn upon the part of the Kreut Zeitung, hitherto the most venomous foe of Great Britain, but which this week came out with a strongly pro-British editorial in which it said "We have for years past resisted all plans aiming at an Anglo-German treaty, giving as our reasons that England is not strong enough on land or sea to be helpful to us. But circumstances have fundamentally changed. England has made extraordinary efforts with her army and navy, and the Soudan campaign has shown that England is able to stand her ground in the field. With such an England one can do business. While we have no reason to seek for a treaty, we heartily approve of an understanding."

This utterance on the part of a newspaper which has the closest relations with the court and army is deeply significant. It is said the ex-Empress of Germany was made acquainted by the Emperor, before he left for the Holy Land, with his resolution to resume negotiations with Great Britain for the purpose of broadening and extending the Anglo-Germany understanding. The German minister of foreign affairs, Baron Von Buelow, who, of all the members of the cabinet, exerts the greatest influence over the Emperor, warmly supports the pro-British policy, as an offset to the coldness upon the part of Russia.

No Further Trouble Anticipated at the Scene of the Phœnix Riot.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., November 12.—A special to the Journal from Greenwood, S. C., says:

Advices from Phœnix City report no rioting. Everything quiet there today. It has been decided not to take the Tolberts back there and consequently no further trouble is anticipated. The inquest over the dead negroes will be held to morrow.

SPANISH TROOPS ARE MUTINOUS.

Revolt of Part of the Forces Stationed in the City of Havana.

SOME REGIMENTS DISBANDED

Regulars Refuse to Fire or Charge Upon Their Brother Soldiers When Ordered to Do So—Uprisings Among Other Regiments.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, Nov. 12, 3.30 P. M.—The Orden Publico force, cavalry and infantry regiments, was disbanded yesterday after a part payment of arrears had been made.

The trouble leading to the disbandment of the force began with the protest of the Third company on Thursday morning before the Palace. At that time Gen. Solana, chief of staff of Gen. Blanco, addressed the men and led them back to their quarters on Compostela street, where the men gave cheers for Spain and General Blanco. General Arolas, military governor of Havana, ordered 4.000 troops, quartered in the outskirts of Havana, to march into the city, where they arrived at night fall. At the head of a portion of these troops General Arolas marched toward the orden publico quarters, where the protesting Third company was drawn up in the streets under orders. The regulars refused to charge or fire upon their brother soldiers when ordered to do so, in the hope of intimidating the men, who were finally persuaded to retire to their quarters.

Minor uprisings occurred during the night among other regiments. Barring these incidents, the military have maintained thorough control of the city. The sum total of the casualties Thursday night was Lieutenant Colonel, General Aroyalas, wounded in the hand, and another wounded seriously. The city has again resumed its normal tranquility, although the regulars are still quartered in the principal streets and parks as a precautionary measure.

THE PEACE COMMISSIONERS.

Spaniards Busily Engaged in Preparing Documents to Be Submitted at the Next Session.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PARIS, November 12.—It is now believed that the next meeting of the peace commissioners may be postponed until Tuesday, though no definite decision has been arrived at on the subject.

The Spanish commissioners are still busily engaged in the preparation of the documents which they will submit at the next session of the commissions, and it is understood that their presentation will cover matters which render their careful preparation unusually important.

Some of the original papers and transcripts necessary for the next presentation of Spain's case will probably not arrive here until too late on Monday to permit of a meeting that day, which, of course, would necessitate the postponement of the next of the commissions until Tuesday.

Spain has held and may still insist that she effectually reserved her Philippine sovereignty from discussion or disturbance by the United States, in a note from Duke Almodovar de Rio, the Spanish minister of foreign affairs, to Judge Day, the then United States Secretary of State, dated Madrid, on August 7th. It is by this message that Spain presumably accepted the terms of peace which at Spain's request, had been set forth by President McKinley through Secretary Day, under the date of July 30 And it is by this message of Duke Almodovar de Rio and by the response of Secretary Day that Spain seeks to prove to the United States peace commission and to the tribunal of nations, that Spain's sovereignty over the Philippine Islands was reserved from any discussion here and protest from the United States.

BELIEVED TO BE MANLY.

A Negro Attacked and Badly Beaten in Norfolk—Arrived with Ex-Chief Melton, Bunting and Gilbert.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., November 12.—A negro, giving the name of George W. Brown, who arrived here to-day from Wilmington, N. C., via Newbern and Elizabeth City, was attacked and badly beaten in the postoffice this afternoon by several young men, who, it is said, took him to be Manly, the negro editor, who was driven out of Wilmington Thursday. A special officer went to the negro's rescue. The patrol wag on was dispatched to the scene and Brown carried to police headquarters for safe keeping. He claims New York as his home, and will be sent there to-night. Brown says that he came to Norfolk to day on the same train with the late chief of police, justice of the peace, and another white man who were compelled to leave Wilmington.

It was stated to day that Manly was in Norfolk, but the police department made an investigation and found this to be untrue. He is said to be in Asbury Park, N. J.

SHOT BY A NEGRO TOUGH.

Two Soldiers of the Tenth Cavalry—Both Fatally.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA., November 12.—Private Jackson, troop H, was instantly killed, and Corporal Garret, troop H, mortally wounded, late last night by "Horse" Douglas, a negro tough of this city. Both men belonged to the Tenth cavalry. No one saw the killing. Douglas was seen with the two soldiers in the tough part of the city, and his pistol had three empty shells. He is in jail, but denies the crime. The rumor has been circulated all during the day that the Tenth cavalry would lynch the prisoner, but the sheriff fears no such violence.

THE LAST DAY'S SESSION.

United Daughters of the Confederacy. Officers Elected—Convention Next Year in Richmond.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., November 12.—The last day's session of the convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was devoted to a discussion of the amendments to the by-laws and to the election of officers.

An amendment to the effect that no one could cast a vote except in one chapter, though she is a member of several, and that members could not hold two offices in one chapter, was adopted after a lively debate.

A letter from Mrs. Jefferson Davis, stating that she would prepare a biography of her daughter, Miss Winnie Davis, if the daughters of the Confederacy would agree to handle and dispose of the book and devote the proceeds to a monument to Miss Davis' memory was read. A motion prevailed that Mrs. Davis be instructed that the Daughters of the National Chapter would donate $100 toward the monument fund, and that the organization generally would raise the balance required for such a monument, but that they would sell the biography if Mrs. Davis would accept the proceeds for her individual benefit.

Mrs. Currie was re-elected to the presidency by acclamation.

Mrs. Forney, president of the Arkansas State chapter, was elected vice president; Mrs. Plane, of Georgia, second vice president; Mrs. Hickman, of Nashville, Tenn., recording secretary; Miss Meares, of Wilmington, N. C., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas, of Atlanta, Ga., treasurer.

It was decided to meet next year at Richmond, Va.

THE MARIA TERESA.

Wrecking Tug Potomac Ordered to Take Possession of the Vessel and Drive Off the Wreckers.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov 12.—The official report to the navy department of the finding of the Maria Teresa was contained in the following cablegram received from Commander Craven, of the wrecking tug Potomac, which, had been ordered to Cat Island from Santiago:

"Potomac arrived. Maria Teresa near Bird Point, Cat Island, one mile off shore in two fathoms of water. Tide rising and falling inside. Temporary deck broken up; movable articles removed by natives. Vulcan not seen. Natives at work since Saturday."

The Potomac was ordered at once back to Cat Island with instructions to Commander Craven to take possession of the Teresa and drive off the wreckers who are looting the ship. He replied by cable that he would leave immedistely and would arrive at the wreck in the morning. The fact that the Teresa, a vessel drawing in trim 25 feet of water, and waterlogged as she was when abandoned probably drawing nearly 30 feet should have been driven in 12 feet of water is regarded by naval officers as evidence of the great strength of the storm which caused her crew to leave her.

PHILIPPINES QUESTION.

Instructions of a Positive Character Drafted for the American Commissioners in Paris.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Cabinet held a special session to-night at which instructions understood to be of a positive character bearing on the Philippine question, were drafted for dispatch to the American commissioners in Paris. These instructions were the outcome of the conference held early in the day and instruct the American representatives to admit of no further discussion as to the right to consider the disposition of the islands, and state that on that point the instructions already sent must stand, the only matter for discussion from the American view being the manner of giving over the islands.

There will be held in Frankfort, Ky., the first Monday in December, a State convention of Kentucky growers of tobacco, when the initial steps will be taken to dissolve the trust recently formed to control the plug tobacco trade.

Admiral Schley having asked again for sea service, has been promised the command of the Eastern squadron which will be re-established in a short time with some of the finest cruisers in the navy, to exhibit the American flag creditably to the European nations.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

The Killing of J. W. Newton by His Father-in-Law.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

FRANKFORT, KY., November 12.—County Judge Moore dismissed the murder charge against Sergeant Perkins, who killed his son-in-law, J. W. Newton, Thursday night. County Attorney Polsgrove made a statement that proof showed that Newton betrayed his wife before marrying her and recently betrayed her young sister. Polsgrove said he would not prosecute any man under similar circumstances. The large crowd in the court room cheered the attorney when he made his statement and this broke into wild applause when Judge Moore said that the case was plainly justifiable homicide, and told Perkins to go to his family a free man.

The Eskimo's "Huskie."

The wild dog, uninfluenced at all by association with man, is typical of nothing but the wolf, and in the circumpolar ice he is found in numbers roving over the fields of snow and ice, frequently in company with the wolves. The Eskimos have taken their wild creatures and by a rude process of selection and training they have developed the "huskie," a colloquial abbreviation of the word Eskimo These animals represent a type of dog but little removed from the wolf—hardy, vicious, swift of foot and keen of eye. They have been trained to haul sledge loads of goods across the snow and ice, and this comes as natural to them now as for a pointer to point. They possess the blood of the wolf, however, in their veins—the taint of the jackal. At the first opportunity they will run away and join the wild dogs and deteriorate rapidly in their company.—George E. Walsh in North American Review.
